bf.collaboration Inc. Introduces bf.documents GFX – Document Management for Graphic Design

VIENNA, VIRGINIA, May 5, 2006 -- bf.collaboration, Inc., a software products and services company specializing in web-based, enterprise document management and collaboration software, has released bf.document GFX – Document management for collaborative development and repurposing of graphic files. Key features include:

- Thumbnail Browsing: Optionally switch any folder to “thumbnail view” while browsing your document files.
- Auto-determination of Image Properties: When browsing in thumbnail view, bf.documents determines properties such as image width, height, and resolution, and displays these image properties along side each thumbnail.
- View Thumbnails in Revision History: When viewing a graphic’s revision history, a thumbnail of each revision is displayed to provide an easy visual representation of the graphic’s evolution.
- Tools to Publish Configured Images to the Web in an Easy-to-Use Gallery Format: With bf.documents, you can designate a folder as a “gallery,” then – with the supplied tools (API and example scripts) – publish the images to your intranet or internet as a web-based image gallery.
- All Popular Image Formats Supported: Formats supported include Adobe PDF, Adobe Photosop (PSD), JPG, GIF, Animated GIF, TIFF, PNG, and many more.

bf.collaboration, Inc. has worked closely with graphic designers to design and develop the new graphics-related capabilities for bf.documents GFX. Sara Freeman, lead graphic designer for breathe Event Planning notes, “Because of the nature of graphics, document management has always been a great inconvenience for graphic designers. bf.collaboration has taken its expert document management system [bf.documents], and added to it a set of capabilities that are unique to the development and management of graphic files, and in the process, have created something that is not only valuable, but also easy to use for graphic designers and teams.”

With the introduction of bf.documents GFX edition, bf.documents becomes the first true competitor to Adobe Graphics Server, but at a fraction of the cost. With bf.collaboration Inc.’s continued commitment to fair pricing, which includes no per-user or annual fees, bf.documents and bf.collaboration continue to be leaders in value-added document and enterprise collaboration tools.
